

WaterField Designs Unveils All-in-One Case for the Nintendo DS Lite

Protect your Nintendo DS Lite with this compact, stylish travel case

San Francisco, CA, November 29, 2006 - WaterField Designs, a leading maker of bags and custom-fitted cases for digital gear, introduces a stylish and protective travel case for the best-selling Nintendo DS Lite. The slim DS Lite Case is custom fit to the handheld's dimensions and holds the DS Lite itself, extra games and ear buds. WaterField's color and style options will appeal to the wide range of DS Lite gamers.

The DS Lite Case is constructed from sturdy ballistic nylon with a double layer leather flap. The outer layer is black and the inside layer is available in the same black or in one of two accent colors—kiwi or pink. Users can choose to further distinguish their case with an optional cutout design on the leather flap reminiscent of Nintendo icons.

The case's interior has a soft, padded liner to protect the device from bumps and scratches. Under the flap are easy-to-access game pockets and a loop to hold an extra stylus. The back of the case has a zippered pocket to hold larger games and ear buds.

"We designed this case for gamers looking for greater functionality and style," explained Gary Waterfield, chief designer. "It makes a nice travel companion too; it can be stashed in your backpack, purse, briefcase, or WaterField's Cargo, Cozmo, or Vertigo bag."

Availability & Pricing

The DS Lite Case is available now for pre-order and will ship December 5, 2006 from the WaterField Designs on-line store www.sfbags.com.

The DS Lite Case measures 5.75" x 3.5" x 1.25" and weighs three ounces. Price $39.00. Colors: Black on black, black on kiwi, black on pink. The optional cutout flap design is available in the same colors.
